

HOME GARDEN DISPLAY VISITED BY HUNDREDS

Exhibition at Markethouse Saturday Proves Decided Success.

Huge garden produce was displayed Saturday at the Central markethouse, under the direction of Miss Gertrude Wright, garden supervisor. All visitors at the market declared the exhibit excellent. Many were surprised at the quality and size of the vegetables. This is the first of a series of exhibits to be held during the summer. The purpose of these exhibitions is to encourage gardening.

Mrs. H. E. Sanderson, W. L. Hixson and Frank Nelson acted as judges. In the afternoon prizes were awarded by J. G. Burton and L. W. Bates, as follows:

PLAN RED CROSS GOLF TOURNAMENT AT GOLF AND COUNTRY CLUB JULY 4

Effort to Capture Honor Flag—Must Net $200 for Red Cross. D. S. Henderson and Warren Dewees Favorites, but Several Dark Horses Promise to Make Matches Interesting.

The Chattanooga Golf and Country club will hold forth gaily on July 4 with sports of many kinds, chief among which will be a big Red Cross golf tournament. This will be given for the benefit of "the greatest mother in all the world." An estimated number of sixty or seventy golfers will contest for the championship of the club.

The affair, as arranged by Warren Dewees, Jr., chairman of the committee, will be in line with the movement of clubs belonging to the United States Golf association all over the country. Each player will be required to pay an entrance fee, but no definite amount has been set. All collected in this way will be turned over to the American Red Cross.

Clubs with eighteen-hole courses which collect a total of $200 from entrance fees will be presented with an official honor flag in recognition. Those whose facilities are limited to nine holes may obtain the flag by subscribing half that amount. Mr. Dewees stated Monday that every effort will be made to put the Chattanooga aggregation in the $200 class, although the matter has not been discussed much as yet.

Tally will be taken this year by medal play and not by matches, as it has been previously. Play will be started in the morning and, continuing all day, will be finished the following Saturday, July 4 coming on Thursday. Several are said to have championship aspirations, but the real contest will probably be between D. S. Henderson and Warren Dewees, though it is intimated that there are several dark horses which will be in the running also. The winner of last year's title was Garner Watkins, but he will not be here to defend it again. A few of the players who will probably enter the tournament are: D. S. Henderson, Warren Dewees, L. C. Phillips, D. W. Atchison, Pollack Boyd, B. F. Annis, W. G. Oehmig, E. D. Herron, Paul leat; Luke Dearing, Eugene Dover and Harry Burnett, Misses Grace and Gladys Dearing, Hazel Mitchell, Marion Crouch, Fannie Morrison, Barbara Steiner, Loraine Burnett, Lillian Dearing, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Dear, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Dover, Mr. and Mrs. John Burnett, Mrs. Annie Steiner.

ANIVERSARY MEETING OF WRITERS' CLUB

The Chattanooga Writers' club will have its regular anniversary meeting Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Charles R. Hyde, 229 Vine street. The conclusion of the novel written by different members of the club, will be read by Mrs. H. O. Milton.

PRETTY SOUTHERN GIRL TO WED MICHIGAN MAN

Another romance between a northern and a southern girl brought into acquaintance as a result of the war became known when Miss Thelma Dale left Sunday for Petersburg, Va., where she will be married Monday to Lieut. Harry L. Gardner, who is stationed at Camp Lee. She was accompanied by her brother, Joe Dale, and the lieutenant's sister, Miss Eleanor Gardner, of Petersburg, Mich., who also attended the wedding.

Lieut. Gardner enlisted in the army in May, 1917, at his home in Petoskey and was sent to Fort Oglethorpe at once. He met Miss Dale early in his stay of ten months here. He was later promoted to the rank of sergeant and assigned to the third training camp at Woodland, Mich., where he met his commission after going to Camp Lee.

Miss Dale is an unusually attractive girl and has a wide circle of friends. She has been employed in the editorial rooms of The News for the past few months, resigning to embark on her new career.

Hugh Brown is the son of Hon. Foster V. Brown and mother of Joe and Lieut. Foster V. Brown, Jr. The latter is now in France, and when last heard from was with his regiment in the front lines. The new position which Mr. Brown accepts has an important bearing on the great war now waging, and while Mr. Brown was not in the draft age, he was anxious to do his bit for his country and he made application and later stood the examination for the position to which he is now advised he has been appointed. Mr. Brown leaves Wednesday morning for Philadelphia to take up his new duties.
